2B Secure 4.3 Data Privacy Software Completed

2B Advice, an international consulting firm based in Bonn that specializes in data privacy, today unveiled the latest version of its data privacy management solution 2B Secure, version 4.3. 2B Secure covers all of companies' data privacy processes, from analysis and implementation to monitoring and control of all data privacy specifications. The new version, 2B Secure 4.3, will be delivered to licensees starting immediately.

2B Secure 4.3 contains a number of new features in response to both day-to-day consulting practice at 2B Advice and numerous customer requests. "Our goal is to provide full-spectrum support for the many tasks involved in data privacy management in companies," says Marcus Belke, Managing Director of 2B Advice.

Overview of the most important new developments:

2B Secure 4.3 offers the option of inviting others to participate in an online audit. The audit can be prepared or processed by the customer, auditor, or contract data processor. Authentication is handled by sending a token and a password separately. The audit is prepared in 2B Secure, and the invitations are sent afterward.

There are a number of new reporting features in 2B Secure 4.3. The visualization and scope of a report can now be controlled on an individual basis using various parameters. A new overview screen allows users to quickly find what they are looking for among the many reports generated. It offers various filter options, which can be used to restrict the items viewed to certain users or time periods, for example. It is also possible to generate a report on all users and their authorizations.

The search options have also been expanded. It is now possible to search directly for data processors, for example. The term "data processors" has also been added to the search criteria for processes. This allows users to find all processes hosted by a certain data processor.

Two new copy features make working with 2B Secure 4.3 even easier. Reused processes – which inherently show references to other processes – can now be copied such that the copy itself also shows a reference to the original process. When copying customers, users now have the option of copying sub-customers at the same time.

All of the legal texts, the list of supervisory and regulatory agencies, and the practical manual have also been fully updated and expanded.
